250,000 MOOSE EXPECTED HERE BY THURSDAY

CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE: TUESDAY, JUNE 29, 1926.

Home to Outsiders.

Final arrangements were perfected yesterday by the convention committee of the Loyal Order of the Moose, which Thursday opens its international convention at the Auditorium theater. The meeting is expected to attract a crowd of more than 250,000 to the city, Dr. William E. Buehler, general chairman, said yesterday. While the committee was completing its arrangements at the Sherman hotel, the supreme council of the order met at the Palmer house to consider several important measures to present to the convention while at the first business session.

Consider New Policies. According to R. H. Brandon, execu ive secretary of the organization, the ouncil's debate yesterday centered round two proposals.

The first considered whether the or-der should include children of nonmembers as their wards in their children's home at Mooseheart, west of Chicago. Numerous companies have made re quests of the council, Mr. Brandon said, asking that children of their decease employés be placed in Mooseheart and

THE increase in riding on the Chicago Surface Lines up to date this year exceeds the 25,000,000 increase for the twelve months last year, and that was a record breaker.

With this start, this last year of the franchise period promises to be the most remarkable in point of service in Surface Lines history.

Growing demand necessitates increase in facilities.

The management is doing its best to provide these, although the expiration of the franchise next January prevents the securing of adequate capital.

One hundred new cars have been ordered for early fall delivery at a cost of $1,600,000. Schedules are being rewritten constantly to get the most possible service out of the 3,539 cars now owned.

It is evident that the street car is steadily becoming more important in local transportation and every effort is being made to keep pace with growth in business.

There is no substitute for street car service.

Seven out of every ten eligible employes have signified a determination to become partners in the big business of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The Company itself has encouraged employe ownership by Stock Purchasing Plans.

The first Stock Purchasing Plan, formulated five years ago, and just completed, resulted in the employes receiving $215.00 for every $100.00 subscribed by them.

A new plan, similar to the first, and running for three years, has been started by the Company, and 70.87% of all eligible employes have subscribed.

Col. Robert W. Stewart, Chairman of the Board of Directors, briefly outlined the pur-

"What the Board of Directors wanted was a plan which would give to the employe something of permanent value, a permanent investment assuring an income in later years, an investment in the company which employed them that would make them partners with the managers and other stockholders, welding the organization into one great army of 29,000 people working for a common cause and common good."

The Stock Purchasing Plans, originated for the benefit of the employes, are an incentive to save—a spur to ambition. They give to the employes an opportunity for a sound investment, yielding, by the generous terms of the arrangement, a substantial and enduring profit.

But a larger, more important result of the Stock Purchasing Plans is the strengthening of that spirit of unity which binds the 29,000 men and women of the organization into one great force, working with the single " purpose — to serve.

The personnel of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is not a group of 29,000 people working with separate and conflicting ambitions; it is a huge force of 29,000 earnest. ambitious men and women, working together to achieve a common end. And the interests of this working force are the interests of the management and the other stockholders.

This identity of interests results in a service to the consuming public of the highest and broadest type the organization is capable of rendering.

For the theory of service, which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has put into practice, rests upon the conviction that the interests of employes, management, and stockholders are identical - to serve the thirty million people of the Middle West with petroleum products of standard quality at a price which is fair and equitable.

NEW MAN

To feel oneself a new man with each new day is part and parcel of physical well-being. But daily revival is impossible if the dregs of yesterday are permitted to poison the cup of life today. It is a law of right living to have no regrets rankling in head or heart, and no toxic burdens lingering in the body.

The gentle discipline of ENO'S Effervescent Salt will help to keep both mind and body clear for action. The dash of ENO, taken in a half glass of water in the morning, promotes intestinal regularity. It helps to remove yesterday's waste out of the way of today's work. And yet, ENO is not revolutionary in its method. It is gentle and persuasive, assisting nature, not bullying her. The dry mouth and throat luxuriate in it, and the inner organs accept it gratefully, because it gives them just the help they welcome and need, perhaps more than you suppose. There isn't a trace of anything harsh or hasty, either in what it is or what it does.

The NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL . . . Key to the World's Richest Market

In the New York. market , , for quick sales and lots of them, use the NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL

TIME after time, in the past, merchandisers have balked at entering the New York market -deterred by its size, its supposed difficulties, and their own ignorance of trade conditions there. The New York market has seemed to many manufacturers a sort of golden dream, desirable and yet remote, something fabulously rich and unattainable.

The world's richest market

It remained for the New York Evening Journal to explode this fallacy. The Evening Journal has proved again and again, by the test of actual accomplishment, that it can put a new product into the New York market, and not only sell it, but sell it quickly and repeatedly. It has proved, by the truest of all methods, that its advertising columns command the gateway to the greatest single market in the world.

The New York market—the fifty-mile area surrounding Manhattan-has 9,000,000 consumers, more than there are in twenty-eight large American cities combined! Here is the financial heart of the nation, with a greater total wealth than that of six large mid-western states. Here are the finest distribution facilities, the most highly organized trade channels

This is the market which the New York Evening Journal offers you-a compact, condensed, and yet incredibly rich field, which is constantly growing. Its 9,000,000 consumers need and buy hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of goods yearly. They purchase often and pay a good price. This trade is the most valuable in America. It belongs to those who have the enterprise and the brains to capture it.

Commanding circulation

The secret of capturing new trade lies in good advertising. And the whole effect of good advertising is conditioned upon the number of people who read it. The New York Evening Journal has a circulation of more than 700,000 daily-more than the next two evening papers combined, plus 100,000-at 3c a copy daily and 5c on Saturday! For twenty-seven years the Evening Journal has led all other New York evening papers in circulation. For twelve years it has printed more advertising than any other New York evening newspaper! The Evening Journal printed more advertising of department stores and women's specialty-shops during 1925 than any other New York evening, or morning and Sunday, newspaper combined.

Every day the New York Evening Journal is taken into more than 700,000 homes and read by approximately 2,000,000 people. In the Borough of Brooklyn alone—a community of 2,240,000 people-more Brooklyn editions of the Evening Journal are sold than all the Brooklyn newspapers combined! In all, at least 3,065,000 consumers out of the 9,000,000 in the Metropolitan trading area -more than one-third-live in homes where the New York Evening Journal is read daily.

Nothing takes the place of circulation. And the New York Evening Journal, with its commanding circulation in the fifty-mile area comprising Metropolitan New York, holds a unique and unassailable position as the key to this great market. Its widespread and complete distribution; its close touch with trade and merchandising conditions; above all, the public

What the New York Evening Journal did for "Canada Dry"

"Canada Dry" Ginger Ale, one of the greatest successes in modern merchandising, was introduced four years ago in the New York market with color pages in the New York Evening Journal. The makers of this popular beverage in the accompanying letter express their appreciation of the big results obtained.

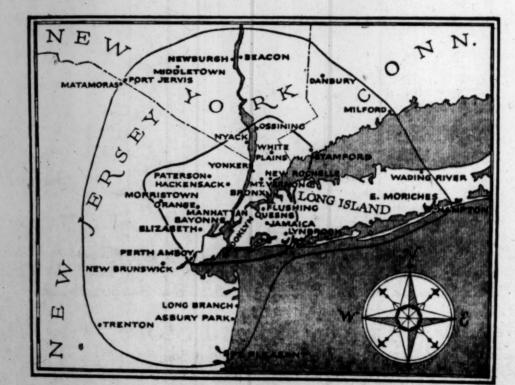

June 3, 1926.

New York Brening Journal New York City Dear Sirs:

We are now starting in our fourth year of advertising in the New York Evening Journal. The results obtained from the color pages run in your magazine section for "Canada Dry" Ginger Ale have demonstrated to us very forcibly the strength of the New York Evening Journal in selling this product in the New York market.

When "Canada Dry" was a new drink to New Yorkers, the dominance we gained from our advertising in the Evening Journal, and the help given us by your Merchandising Department, we considered a big factor in the immediate success of this successful product.

Since that time we have consistently advertised in the Evening Journal and feel sure that we will continue to have the same gratifying results in the future as in the past.

Urged by Graettinger

The urge to buy stocks solely in the hope of making a speculative profit subjects the buyer to undue influence of daily quotations, tips and rumors, and usually leads to oversight of fundamental investment values.

The soundest and most profitable method is to select income paying stocks of established companies which have investment merit logically entitling them to increase in value with the growth in earning power and assets.

Automatically an opportunity for an investment profit is thereby substituted for a speculative possibility.

Our business has been builded on the principle of recommending sound stocks for investment and our experience of nearly a quarter of a century demonstrates this to be correct.

DECLINING interest rates are causing a marked decrease in the number of sound bond issues yielding from 6% to  $6\frac{1}{2}$ %. The majority of good bonds are selling on a basis to yield less than 6%.

However, you can still purchase First Mortgage Real Estate bonds of the highest grade from this company to yield as high as 6.55% to 6.60%.

This opportunity may not be available even a few months from now. For it is becoming increasingly difficult for us to obtain 61/2% bonds which meet our high standards of safety-standards which will never be lowered. So it is quite probable that within a comparatively short time our issues will be sold on a 6% basis.

Grasp this opportunity now and make certain of a 6½% yield for ten or twelve years to come. We will gladly hold any bonds you order until July 15. Call at our banking quarters, phone Franklin 5600, or, if more convenient, fill out and mail to us the blank below.

WHEN the Seneca Hotel was erected at Seneca and Chestnut streets, Chicago, the owners knew they could do no better than to put on a Carey Built-up Roof. For Carey roofs have been giving proof of their super-enduring quality for over half a century!

Hundreds of other Chicago building owners also know, from actual experience, that Carey Built-up Roofs afford the best possible insurance against roof troubles-the best guarantee of lasting protection.

Carey Built-up Roofs give better service over a longer period of years because they are made of finer materials—tough, long-fibred felt, and asphalt specially refined and blended at the Carey plant to make it as perfect as a roofing asphalt can be made.

Besides the Seneca Hotel, the list of Careyroof structures in Chicago includes office buildings, stores, factories, garages — for there's "A Carey roof for every building." Have us tell you all about them.

INSTALLMENT XLIV. JOHN PREPARES FOR ACTION.

John did not attempt to follow or detain Effeen. Her very earnestness bed taken his breath away. He literally did not grasp the true intent of that set strange avowal until she was already within the lodge gates, for his sungry gaze had accompanied her across the village green and so into the safy fastness of the park. Then he understood, and was so overwhelmed by the magic of the love which had burned so faithfully during the long of storm and suffering that he sank into a chair.

He was recalled to his senses by a cold nose thrust into his hand and a oft tongue licking it. Spot, well aware that his duty on such an occasion to remain a very quiet, dog, had stretched himself under the table, and en, after patting his huge head when he entered the room, had completely

John fondled his friend's neck and ears, and strove to recapture the con t mood of the afternoon. He had to admit that Eileen was right, though e admission implied the need of immediate action, and it had been seen at beyond taking the first great step by coming home to claim his legacy had done little hitherto in his own behalf. He had tried to stop the marage, and had failed. After that nothing else mattered. Now, it would appear, his own position was the really vital thing. In that small and isolated community the affairs of the "castle the glen persisted in misnaming a Georgian mansion, and those of the cottage were common property. It was reported that Alistair Panton and his wife, having behaved strangely from the outset of their married life, had now passed from a sort of friendly pact of avoidance into open and bitter parfare. There are no secrets in a large household which, like Invertochtie, t off from the outside world. And the village was practically part of The instant Eileen sought rooms for John at the postoffice, punced her intention of awaiting his arrival when she put in an ice that evening, Macdonald guessed that the glen would have cause grain before long. And he was all for John Panton and Elleen, all against Meair. Why this should be, he could not explain. "It was just an auld havers." he said afterwards, when striving to piece together the g events of that night and the next day.

It was too late, of course, to telegraph to London, but Macdonald underdespatch a bit message to Mallaig by cyclist before 8 o'clock next ng. #### Aldis Players Open 3-Day Engagement to Appreciative Audience

The Aldis Players in the Aldis playhouse at Lake Forest opened their three day summer engagement last night. The same heavy velvet curtains that used to drape the place nearly a decade ago were drawn back at 9:10 o'clock, revealing Mrs. Laird Bell in the disguise of an aged inmate of an old ladies' home. The play was "A Meeting," by Dorothy Aldis, The three other rôles were played by Mrs. Cecil Barnes, Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, and Mrs. Aimee Millet.

The piece was followed by "Baubles and Beans," an extravaganza by Mrs. Arthur Aldis and presented by Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Atkinson and Mrs. Millet. A third drama, " The Last Flame," also by Mrs. Arthur Aldis, was acted by Mrs. Maurice Browne, Miss Betty Ross, Mrs. Laird Bell, and Mrs. George Dickson.

Among the appreciative audience were Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGann, with their daughter and their house guest, Mrs. Frank Griswold of Phila lelphia; Mrs. C. M. Ely, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. They figure that since dry weather usually sets in soon after the first of July and it takes more than 100 days for late cab-bage to mature, the plants should be in the ground within the next few The first week in June is the date marked on gardeners' calendars as the time when they expect to pick their first Early June peas, but this year they did well to get a mess by the second week in June. In many of the earliest gardens Lactonia peas didn't open their blossoms until within the flat pods are now about two and a half inches long and have begun to fill. Lactonias, if planted early, ought to be ready to eat within the next ten days or two weeks.

Beans, including such varieties as the Bountiful and Davis Wax, started coming several days ago. They are still suffering from the shock of the hard beating rain that fell about two weeks ago. Black Valentines are ready to bloom in the early gardens. There should be plenty of green beans ready to eat within the next two weeks if the weather is favorable.

The Fourth of July marks another important date on the gardener's cal-endar; it is the time of year when risk. In fairness to yourself, try it. many of the veteran growers stop breaking stalks in their rhubarb beds. They give the plants a chance to rest from the first week in July until the start using it again.
